THE QUEEN'S HANDBAG

In this issue, Bethany Puzio, aged 10, talks about her concerns for the world and how we all need cheering up sometimes

I am concerned about conserving animals that could become extinct, particularly the orangutans. I have been watching Orangutan Diaries which has got me thinking but there are so many sad things in the world that sometimes I think we need cheering up. I was just wondering what the Queen thinks about conserving animals. She is a nice person actually. She is friendly and gets concerned about the world. She always wanders around with her handbag so I thought "I wonder what she has in there?" So far, every single woman I know has make up in her handbag so I had to start with that. They also have mobile phones so I thought it wouldn't be just any mobile phone... and she would have to have a big handbag for the Corgi!

Six things you would find in the Queen's handbag

A bus pass in case her diamond covered car breaks down.

Fluorescent pink lipstick in case of a fashion emergency.

Extra "Max-Factor" mascara in case of another fashion emergency.

One hundred different shades of eye shadow; a different colour to match each of her outfits.

A diamond covered phone to catch up with the latest gossip with Gordon Brown and Barack Obama.

A pet corgi, to keep her company.
